of the land should be paid into the School Fund.

On September 28th, 1850, the United States granted to the state of Florida all of the swamp and overflowed lands within her borders for the purpose of aiding the said state in reclaiming them. The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the above agreement constitutes a contract between the state and the United States, and that any legislation, seeking to divert the fund from the purposes of the contract is null and void. The State of Florida accepted the grant, created trustees, defined their duties, the principal duty being the drainage and reclamation of the land; and the Supreme Court of the State of Florida, in the case of Trustees vs. Gleason, 16th, Florida, declared that it was the duty of the trustees to drain and reclaim the land. Every Governor of Florida since 1880 has endeavored in one way or another to carry out the above contract. An area of about four million five hundred thousand acres of land in the drainage district has passed into the ownership of corporations and private individuals. A very small portion to the private individuals, probably not one-fortieth. The trustees holding less than three million acres in the district, have proceeded to drain and reclaim the land with the money in the fund that under the law cannot be used for any other purpose, until the work of reclamation is complete. The Legislature seeing that the four and one-half million acres, owned by corporations and individuals would be benefitted by the work undertaken by the trustees, enacted a law creating a board of drainage commissioners, and authorizing said commission to lay out a drainage district and to levy an acreage tax not to exceed ten cents per acre in any one year. The trustees agreeing to put up as much money per acre for the lands in the fund, as would be assessed against the lands owned by the corporations and individuals. The trustees and drainage commissioners concluded that to properly equip and proceed with the work they should have about three hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, they therefore levied a tax, not of ten cents an acre, but of five cents an acre upon all of the taxable lands; and concluded to put up five cents an acre on all of the lands in the fund that were in the same district, which would make up the sum. It was thought that six dredges should be built, and that sum would build them and operate them for more than a year; and after that, an assessment of one and one-fourth cents per acre would probably be sufficient to operate the dredges, and that the whole work of canceling and placing the land in the reach of the agriculturist would be finally completed. It is but fair that, if A and B own land in the same drainage district, A owning three million and B owning four and one-half million acres, that each should pay the same per acre.

Messrs. Welch & Wisner and their associates thought so once, the legislature thought so when it enacted the law and the trustees still think so, and I deem it my duty as Governor to say to you that there is $225,000 of a drainage tax due, nineteen-twentieths of it from nine corporations, who paid little or nothing for the land, most of it being granted by the state, and about one-fortieth has been partly paid by the agriculturists and other individuals in the drainage district. The trustees on the part of the people of Florida have been putting up all of the money so far. They have built one dredge and have her digging a canal, and have nearly completed another. Shall the corporations in the drainage district reimburse the trustees for their portion of the cost? Or shall they have their land reclaimed free as well as given to them as has been done in most instances. I ask every citizen to contribute at least a two cent stamp, or other small contributions to defray the expense of preparing the data that I think every voter should have, to enable him to make up his mind how to vote on the constitutional amendment, which is proposed. I think that it will cost about $2,500, made up as follows: 100,000 one cent stamps, $1,000; preparing and printing data, about $1,000; purchasing and addressing envelopes, about $500. To every one who contributes more than 50 cents, I promise to return to him his proportion of whatever sum in excess of that amount is contributed. I have sent out about 35,000 documents already, and it has cost me between $700 and $1,000.

Governor Folk and Advertising.

Governor Joseph W. Folk, in addressing the retail merchants of Missouri at their convention in Jefferson City the other day, spoke against the mail order business and favored advertising in the town papers. He said, in part:

"We are proud of our splendid cities, and we want them to increase in wealth and population, and we also want our country towns to grow. We wish the city merchants to build up, but we also desire the country merchant to prosper. I do not believe in the mail order citizen. If a place is good enough for a man to live in and to make his money in, it is good enough for him to spend his money.

"No merchant can succeed without advertising in one way or another. Patronize your home papers, build them up, and they will build the town up and build you up increased trade and greater opportunities. Do not be afraid that business is going to be hurt by the recent exposures of wrongdoing in the commercial world. No man who is doing an honest business can be injured by the light. All business will be better for the cleansing process it is going through and for the stamping out of evil."—American Press.

Startling but True.

People the world over were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theater in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives, yet more than five times this number or over 3,000 people died from pneumonia during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice. Every one of these cases of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many who had every reason to fear pneumonia have warded it off by the prompt use of this remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter, Laura, of a severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was threatened with pneumonia." W. D. WILCOX, Logan, New York. Sold by Ed Greene and all druggists.
